

Dances With Goats

When Alaskan trapper Bartholomew P. Dinklaker saw the movie “Dances with Wolves,” he was immediately inspired to go out and find a timber wolf to do-si-do with. Unfortunately, Dinklaker’s growing myopia caused him to seize the wrong animal. In the long run, however, Godfrey the Goat proved to be excellent company on those long, cold winter nights. And who knows how accommodating Wynona the She-Wolf in Heat would’ve been?
