

Head on a Stick

During the warm, summer months, Pringler Frozen Foods offers an assortment of ice cream novelty items, including its all-natural “Head on a Stick Crunchy Sorbet Pops.” Available in Toddler, Teenage, Midlife Crisis, and Geriatric flavors, the Toddler was head and shoulders (ha) above the others in terms of popularity. Here, Enid and Emil Dinklaker, touring the Pringler factory with their caseworker, select free samples from the walk-in freezer. Naturally, one of the Pops is not really a frozen confection, a fact that will become shockingly clear when the door accidentally closes, locking in the pair in total darkness just long enough to ... oh, but that’s another story. Naturally.